Tryouts Scheduled Today for Touring Company Play

Tryout dates have been announced for the touring company "The Taming of the Shrew" by Roy Hinze, assistant professor of drama. The company, which will make the longest tour of any University since 1920, will be selected after two days of tryouts. Tryouts are scheduled today from 5 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., in Main auditorium. Tryouts are open to all students, but students must be free to make the tour. The production opens April 22 at Helena, but returns to the campus before starting the main portion of the tour at Helena. There will be 30 people in the touring company and some already selected are Ray Halubka, Great Falls, carpenter; Jeanene Hilling, Missoula, costume mistress; and Jerry Walford, Missoula, electrician.

"The Taming of the Shrew" is usually a play within a play. It is a prologue and an epilogue in addition to the normal three acts. This version of the play both prologue and epilogue will be additional dances and music will be added to the play in an attempt to make Shakespeare more interesting to the audience. Mr. Hinze explained that Shakespeare, when writing, was working in a highly competitive field. His works were written to be appreciated by the mass of water-goers. By making this production a lively and gay performance.

House Approves $14,452,951 University Budget

Montana's House of Representatives gave 78 to 0 approval today to a $14,452,951 appropriation for Montana's six university units for the next biennium. It is more than three million dollars over the 1953 appropriation, but was increased because of an expected 10 per cent increase in the university system's enrollment.

...today gave overwhelming approval by a 48 to one vote to a proposal to set up a pay-as-you-go income tax system in the state, modeled after the federal system. An estimated one to two million dollars additional income for the state is expected. All features of the new tax system, the federal code will be the model, except that taxes will remain at one per cent.

...Donald Nutter of Richland County, a 1954 graduate of MSU, has placed the full responsibility for blocking a 1953 investigation of the contracts upon attorney general Arnold Olsen. Nutter made a statement after a special committee had reported that the Veterans and Pioneers Memorial Building was in bad physical condition. He pointed out that two years ago the Contract Awards Investigation committee, which he headed, possibly could have stepped in and prevented any faulty construction and thereby avoided the necessity for the present Memorial Building Investigating committee.

McFarland, Athletic Committee To Interview Mentor Applicants

President Carl McFarland and the University athletic committee will interview four prospective head football coaches here on campus within the next two weeks,

George 'Jiggs' Dahlberg, athletic director, announced Monday. Jerry Williams, Spokane, a professional player-coach with the Philadelphia Eagles, will arrive on campus, March 5, to meet with University officials. Mark Duncan, backfield coach at Colorado A & M, is scheduled March 7. Gene Stauber, end coach at the University of Idaho, is due March 9. Jack Swarthout, Hoquiam, Wash., high school coach, will be on campus March 12.

John Zeger, Grizzly line coach for the past three years, was the only other candidate for the position made public Monday.

Dahlberg emphasized that the list of applicants had not been limited to these men. He said, "Names of other coaches under consideration will be announced when dates for their interviews have been set."

"The athletic committee," said Dr. Earl Lory, committee chairman, "is anxious to talk with the candidates who are not as well known to us as our own coaches and some of our graduates."

Graduated in 1942

Swarthout is the only Montana alumnus named in the first group. He graduated from the University in 1942 after competing for three years in football and basketball. He was an MSU assistant coach in 1942, 1943 and 1946 while doing post graduate work. He coached Army division teams during 1944-45 and later became head football and basketball coach at Hoquiam where he has had eight highly successful years in both sports. Swarthout, 34, is married and has three children.

Williams played four years for the Los Angeles Rams and two with the Eagles. He played in the East-West Shrine game and the All-Star game in 1949. A graduate of Washington State college, Williams is 31, married and has two children.

Coached in Colorado

Duncan has had 12 years of college coaching experience and is highly regarded in the Rocky Mountain area. He has had line coaching and assistant coaching experience at Colorado college, Denver and Colorado A & M. Married, with two children, Duncan 36, is a graduate of the University of Denver.

Stauber played three years at the University of Toledo and one season in the service, then returned to graduate at Toledo in 1947. Stauber assisted at Toledo until 1950, then took a position as freshman backfield coach at Michigan where he received a Master of Science degree in 1952. Before moving to Idaho in 1954 he coached backfield at Stetson university, Deland, Fla., and end coach at the University of Delaware. Stauber is 33, married and has one child.

Pub Board to Choose Kaimin Associates Today

Interviews for four associate editors for the 1955-56 Kaimin will be conducted at 7 p.m. tonight in the Lodge, according to Ray Moholt, Missoula, Publications board chairman. The room number will be posted in the lobby.

Applicants must have served on the Kaimin or have one year of professional newspaper experience. They also must have attended MSU for two quarters, including the present one.

Moholt said that written applications should be turned in to him before the meeting, and that all applicants must appear for interviews. He added that a fifth associate editor will be chosen next fall.

Dome Plaster Delays Finish Of Memorial

Moisture — sealed in the first plaster coats on the dome, has further delayed the completion of MSU's Scheuch Memorial planetarium, according to Herb Torgimson, assistant maintenance engineer.

Each bag of cement that goes into the dome of the planetarium requires 30 gallons of water for its preparation. The water has failed to dry out sufficiently, prolonging the addition of the final coat of finishing cement.

Torgimson said if this finishing coat was applied before the rest of the cement was completely dried, hairline cracks would appear in the dome. In an effort to dry the dome quicker, electric fans were turned on the surface. Torgimson added workmen might be able to apply the final coat today.

After the plastering is completed the dome will be painted a shade of color somewhere between white and light gray. Following this, the floor of the planetarium will be sanded.

Torgimson stated the planetarium should be finished by the beginning of Spring quarter. He added the projection equipment could probably be installed in one day because it is a self-contained unit and only needs to be connected.

Deadline Extended On ROTC Contest

The deadline for entries in the contest to select designs for an Army ROTC shoulder patch and regimental pin has been extended to noon Saturday, according to Cadet Capt. Charles Thompson, Dallas, Tex.

Ten dollar prizes will be awarded for the two selected designs. Entries should be turned in to the Army sergeant-major's office in the ROTC building. Designs which have already been entered may be seen in the display case in the main lobby of the ROTC building.

New Facilities for Sick, Lamé, or Lazy . . .

Pictured above is the architect's drawing of MSU's proposed $130,500 Health Center which is to be a two-story, 70 by 100 foot building. It will stand on the northeast end of the 600 block of Eddy avenue and will be designed as a small hospital equipped with a modern kitchen, testing rooms, six wards, and other doctor's facilities.

More Planning Necessary

One of the most important aspects of student government is the educational value received by those who work with it. This value is heightened when students attempt to reorganize their government.

The idea of revamping student government has been considered many times in the past. Three years ago a senate plan was introduced. It was followed by three other plans—to leave things as they are, make modifications of the present system, or elect delegates from the schools and departments. These four plans were studied by interested students for two months before elections on May 5. Forty per cent of the voters (a plurality) favored modifications of the present system.

With this vote in mind, last year's reorganization committee began work on a plan to make Central board a policy group with several working committees under it. Sub-committees were to be coordinated to eliminate inefficient operation.

This year's ASMSU Planning committee followed the same ideas as its predecessor with more emphasis on coordinating Student Union and ASMSU committees. This plan was finally thrown out and the group began working on a proposal to set up an Activities board under Central board to take care of Student Union committees along with ASMSU's social and Outside Entertainment committees.

The main points of discussion before the vote two years ago favoring a modification of the present system were reorganizing the committee structure, eliminating class officers, and increasing the number of delegates on Central board.

The first of these points is being considered now. The second, elimination of class officers was dropped because of lack of agreement. This point will probably be brought up again according to one of the members of the committee. The third point has not been touched yet and is likely not to be this year according to Tom Van Meter, committee chairman.

This is one of the most important points. We feel that a committee should be set up next year to work on this particular phase of reorganization if this year's group doesn't get to it. The present system does not interest the students as much as it should because the delegates are not representative of any one group. Classes are virtually non-existent, in organization and operation. This leaves class delegates with no one to represent except the entire student body.

Although the students didn't favor it two years ago, we believe that increased representation on Central board should be instituted by electing delegates from the schools and departments. Education is our purpose at college. Students are naturally bound together by a particular field of study. These bonds provide a natural basis for electing representatives.

The present small governing body is efficient, but proper representation, more interest, and efficiency of operation could be accomplished under the school plan.—B.N.

Lois LeDuc Wins Grill Prize of $7

Lois LeDuc, Libby, selected Davis Watson, Deer Lodge, as the first "mystery guest" to eat in the Cascade room of the Lodge and won the $7 prize according to Dr. Lendal H. Kotschevar, director of the food service and residence halls.

The first clue in the Kaimin advertisement hinted at Miss Watson's name. The second clue identified her with AWS, of which she is president. The third clue gave her physical characteristics and a hint of her home town.

The prize consists of one dollar's credit in the Cascade room if the "mystery guest" is guessed the first day of the contest with a dollar added each day that the "guest" goes unnamed. The new contest begins Monday.

Kotschevar also announced that since the opening of the Grill at the Lodge, an average of 650 people per day have purchased refreshments at an average expense of 26 cents per person.

Drama Students End Run Of Theater-in-the-Round

Two one-act plays directed by Drama department students end their runs tonight. The plays are performed on the stage of the Student Union auditorium which has been set up as a theater-in-the-round.

The student play-production is a requirement for a degree in drama.

One of the plays being produced is the "Appolo of Bellac," directed by Marjorie Lovberg, Missoula. Whitney Hines, Billings, and Harold Hanson, Missoula, are featured. MSU theater-goers will remember two other Giraudoux plays performed on this campus, "The Mad Women of Chaillot" and "Amphytrion 38." Miss Lovberg was in both of these plays.

"The problems of theater in the round are quite different from regular theater," said Miss Lovberg commenting on the aspects of directing. "Theater in the round is much more intimate and requires more concentration on detail."

Other members of the cast include, Rich Howell, Hamilton; Gordon Rognlien, Kalispell; Jim Roberts, Dillon; Ron Lundquist and Howard Ness, Billings; Bruce Cusker and Joanne Stratton, Missoula; Don Schroder, Sandpoint, Idaho; Henry Meier, Germany; and Marilyn Hunton, Miles City.

The other play is Christopher Fry's "A Phoenix Too Frequent," directed by Al Esta, Seattle.

"The play is characterized by Fry's emphasis on language. Fry is tops in playwriting today," said Esta. "There's been no such playwriting since Shakespeare."

Marilyn Leary, Butte, in her first dramatic appearance plays a young widow, and Theron DeJarnett, Billings, is a soldier. In her first big part, Marg Edmondson, Sidney, plays a maid.

Lighting for both plays is being done by Nancy Hays, Missoula, while Jeanene Schilling, Missoula, is in charge of costumes for both productions.
